

CAN AN INVALID CARD CANCEL A THIRD PARTY BOOKING AT THE WHITE TULIP HOSTEL AMSTERDAM

For reservations made through another website, we check the credit card number on arrival and may cancel the reservation if the card number is not valid. Guests booking via third parties should carefully review the terms and conditions of their chosen booking channel to understand their specific policies. Why does The White Tulip Hostel Amsterdam check credit card validity on arrival? We verify the credit card used for booking upon your arrival to confirm the authenticity and validity of the payment method. This practice helps us secure reservations and prevent fraudulent bookings. If the card details linked to your reservation are invalid, we reserve the right to cancel your booking to maintain fair access for other guests. How does an invalid card affect third party bookings at The White Tulip? When a booking is made through a third-party website, the credit card details provided may not always be verified beforehand. Because of this, if the card presented at check-in or linked to the reservation is invalid, we may cancel the booking on arrival. This includes bookings where the credit cardholder might be different from the guest staying with us, such as third-party or gift bookings. . .

Can an invalid card cancel a booking?

We may cancel third-party bookings if the credit card number provided on arrival is invalid. Please check conditions.
